

What You Should Know About Returning to the Dentist During COVID-19

Keeping up with your oral health care is important! As dental offices reopen, you should know your dental visit will look a little different.

To keep us all safe, your dentist's office may:

offer to schedule a video appointment if your dentist provides teledentistry services offer fewer appointment options ask you to wear a face mask while in the office take your temperature and ask you pre-screening questions ask you to sanitize your hands ask you to wait outside of the dental office ask you to practice physical distancing in the waiting room tell you of other rules you have to follow when you call to schedule your appointment
